NINA MEKISIC WILL BE INTERVIEWING
ANTHEA FRASER - CLINICAL SOCIAL WORKER IN PRIVATE PRACTICE AND TRAINER @ AUSTRALIAN RADIX TRAINING CENTRE

Exploring the topic:
Bringing the body into mainstream practice

In this interview we will talk with Anthea about the holistic pathway she has navigated in her career straddling mainstream systems and incorporating innovative body centred therapies.

Anthea Fraser

Anthea Fraser is a Radix Body Centred Psychotherapist (certified 1997) and a Senior Trainer for the Australian Radix Training Centre. She is an Accredited MH Social Worker with over 35 years experience in the fields of mental health, community health, relationships and family work. Anthea certified in Imago Relationship Therapy in 1999. She has run Radix experiential body centred workshops, relationships workshops, personal growth and issue based groups for many years. She is an experienced supervisor of allied health professionals and students. Anthea has been in private practice for over 20 years.

Nina Mekisic (AMHSW, MSW) is an ATC member, relationship and trauma therapist and supervisor.

A book chosen by Anthea will be raffled at the event.

Money raised will be donated to the
